

THE RELICS OF THE VOID

A STORY IN FIVE ARTEFACTS

Five ancient artefacts, scattered across dying stars, are the only things that can reignite a dead sun
and save the last human colony.

RELIC I

THE CRYO-CORE CRYSTAL

On the frozen moon of Kepler-9, they found the first relic — a cryo-core crystal pulsing with trapped starlight, cold to the touch but burning inside.

GENERATION PROMPT

"A single glowing blue-white alien crystal, hexagonal and translucent, with light pulsing from within, floating slightly above a surface, studio lighting, plain dark space background, sharp focus, photorealistic, 8k"

RELIC II

THE AETHEREAL HELMET

Drifting in the wreckage of a dead warship, the second relic — a golden astronaut helmet, visor cracked, reflecting a nebula long since gone.

GENERATION PROMPT

"A single futuristic golden astronaut helmet, cracked reflective visor showing a colourful nebula reflection, floating in void, plain dark background, studio lighting, photorealistic, 8k, centered object"

RELIC III

THE ALIEN COMPASS

Buried beneath the sands of a red giant's last planet — an ancient alien compass, still spinning, pointing toward something that shouldn't exist.

GENERATION PROMPT

"A single ornate alien navigation compass, circular, made of dark metal with glowing orange runes, lying flat, plain black background, studio product lighting, photorealistic, 8k, centered"

RELIC IV

THE STELLAR SEED

The fourth relic was a seed — a bioluminescent pod from a civilisation that learned to grow stars like trees.

GENERATION PROMPT

"A single bioluminescent alien seed pod, oval shaped, glowing green and purple, intricate organic surface patterns, floating, plain dark background, studio lighting, photorealistic, 8k, centered object"

The final relic: a star map etched onto an obsidian monolith — every coordinate a sun that had already died, except one.

"A single black obsidian monolith tablet with glowing star map etched on surface, blue light emanating from engravings, standing upright, plain dark background, studio lighting, photorealistic, 8k, centered"
